HESSKE-Volstead tried to analyze the objectives of Russian foreign policy. What attitude should Britain and the United States adopt to cope with this situation?

THE LONDON conference broke down on three major issues. These were the refusal by Britain and the United States to give the Soviet Union a veto in the Security Council.

Storm Claims
Sixteen Lives

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Northeastern states may be blanketed in snow varying in depth from three inches in New York to six inches in Maine.

SNOWFLURRIES struck the Great Lakes region and Chicago Thursday night, but did not bring freezing temperatures.

Transportation and communication facilities in New England and upstate New York broke down under the weight of snow.

ALL MAIN ROADS in New York state were open again today, but driving hazards were reported in some areas.

Two vessels, a cabin cruiser out of New York, R.L. and a tugboat from New Bedford, were reported missing by the coast guard in Boston.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLAR damage was reported in communities along the Maine coast. A line which appeared to be the front of the storm in New England.

INFORMATION COMPILED by the transport department since 1939 shows that 72 applications for licenses to transport goods have been approved by the department.

Stations granted increased power, showing power asked and power granted, respectively, include the following: CFCP-Northern Bristol.

NUERNBERG, Nov. 30.—(BUP)—Rudolf Hess testified in the war crimes trial today that he was a hoax and that he was quite competent and ready to go ahead with his own trial.

DESPITE HESS' MELODRAMATIC assertion from the stand that his purported loss of memory was faked, the International Tribunal withheld an immediate ruling on his mental condition.

His counsel, proceeding Hess in a hearing for which the courtroom was cleared of other Nazi defendants, pleaded that his client's claim to mental fitness was a ploy to the jury of the mind that made him incapable.

THE TESTIMONY provided a sensational climax to Hess' claims that he was a victim of a mental breakdown, and that he was quite competent and ready to go ahead with his own trial.

Speaking from scribbled notes, Hess said solemnly: "My memory is again in order."

HE PAUSED for effect, and resumed: "The reason I simulated a loss of memory was tactical."

He said he had hounded his own counsel, as well as a corps of 10 of the greatest psychiatrists the world had, to prove to the court that he was sane.

HE ASSUMED full responsibility for everything he had said and done in the past—without exception.

He said he was just a method of camouflage. If conditions permit they will start on their trial again.

Dutch, Indonesians

Again Battling

BATAVIA, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The British command announced today that fighting broke out again on the island of Banteng, between Dutch and Indonesian nationalists.

A British ultimatum had ordered all Indonesians out of the northern half of Banteng, the summer capital 75 miles southeast of Batavia by noon yesterday.

To the east in Ambura Indonesia shelled a civilian refugee camp, killing eight and wounding 19, the British command said.

The Indonesians were taken to the landing reinforcements on the south and east banks of a lake in that interior Java town.

Materials, Labor Priorities Are Sought at Conference

Immediate institution of a subsidized program of low-cost homes for veterans and their families together with provision for priorities on materials and manpower until all veterans' families' needs have been met was asked by Premier Ernest Manning when he presented his brief today at the Dominion-provincial conference in session at Ottawa.

Mr. Manning submitted that (1) provide for operation of the national economy necessary to meet post-war requirements; (2) secure each province of adequate resources.

He stated five points on which he said the Alberta government is in disagreement with the present proposals as not accomplishing these purposes. They were that:

(1) Dominion approach to the problem of housing is "reactive rather than preventive"; (2) fiscal aid is inadequate to meet the requirements and financing of social services are too restricted and too rigid; (3) the Dominion's financial position is not sound; (4) the Dominion's financial position is not sound; (5) the Dominion's financial position is not sound.

Ottawa Parley

and be compensated by increased grants from the federal treasury. IT DOES NOT MEAN acceptance of the Dominion proposals in all details. Extensive modifications are likely but the main outline will go through.

In breaking up last night the co-ordinating committee, consisting of Prime Minister Mackenzie King and the nine provincial premiers, established an economic committee which will hold its first meeting Tuesday, Dec. 4.

THE CO-ORDINATING committee itself adjourned until Jan. 28. In the interval between those dates the economic committee—three representatives from each government—will "examine and report upon the economic factors affecting Dominion and provincial proposals and relations."

The expectation is the economic committee will have the basis of an agreement acceptable to all worked out by Jan. 28 and the co-ordinating committee in a few days would put the finishing touches to the job. A PLenary session of the conference would then follow for the formal acceptance and signing of the agreement which would usher in a new era not only in inter-governmental relations but in co-operation among governments.

The expectation of co-operation is based on the feeling which prevailed in the meeting that there should be a continuing agency, jointly representing the Dominion and provincial governments with a secretariat in Ottawa, to keep all governments informed of developments and plans and see that the agreement to be adopted functions as it is intended.

IT WAS AGREED that the chairman of the economic committee will be the senior Dominion member. Representatives on it may be either ministers or permanent civil servants. Justice Minister St. Laurent is likely to head the Dominion trio and be the chairman.

Within the next few weeks various provincial governments are expected to make public statements of their proposals and counter-proposals. The first of these may come from Premier Angus Macdonald of Nova Scotia before he leaves Ottawa.

PREMIER GEORGE DREW of Ontario will be making a statement in a week or so and Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan will be doing the same.

Premier John Hart of British Columbia outlined his position in a public statement last Monday but may have something further to say in the light of the committee discussions. These statements of provincial premiers are expected to be in line with the general aim of reaching agreement.

IT FELT that since the Dominion proposals were placed before the public last August, the provinces should make known their positions before they enter into any binding on their people.

Mr. King presided over each of the sessions, five solid hours each day, and at the end of each made an optimistic but non-committal comment. He was in a happy mood as the meeting broke up.

"WE HAVE HAD an increasingly interesting and profitable meeting," he said. "It has been an exceptionally profitable week, I may say."

Mr. Drew, who strongly advocated this kind of intimate, closed door meeting of premiers when conference procedure was under discussion last August, also was pleased.

"It is a tremendously important conference," he said. "We have accomplished a great deal. The procedure which has been followed makes us all very hopeful of the outcome of the conference."

Bank Salaries Are Criticized In Parliament

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Salaries paid by Canadian banks and insurance companies were criticized in the Commons last night by Arthur Smith (PC, Calgary West).

SPEAKING DURING consideration of budget resolutions, Mr. Smith described bank salaries as "completely disgraceful" and said the banks excused the low wages with the claim that they looked after their employees in their old age through annuity contracts.

The annuity plan provided that the employee paid a certain amount into a fund and the bank paid a certain amount. However, should he be discharged the employee received only one-half of the money he had paid into the fund and that without interest.

MR. SMITH said he also had learned that women were not eligible for coverage by pension funds, despite the fact they had been employed in banks in increasing numbers since after the First Great War.

He felt that Finance Minister Loefer or some other member of the government should look into these annuity contracts.

A. M. Nicholson (CCF-Mackenzie) said he knew of a man who left a bank after 15 years of service with a good record and yet could not get back the money he had paid into a pension fund.

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT did not breach its contract with the holders of annuities by making annuities subject to taxation after June 25, 1940, Mr. Hiley said in reply to Harry Jackson (PC-Toronto, Rosedale) who charged that the government had breached its contract by subjecting annuities to income taxes.

Mr. Hiley said the government had carried out its contracts. He would take a back seat if anyone could show him where a clause of a contract was broken.

MR. ISLEY said the government agreed in the contract to do no enlargement of annuities but never agreed to refrain from taxing the enlargement. No one was prevented from enlarging his annuity subject to conditions existing at the time the enlargement was made.

Survey Is Started West Employment

WINNIPEG, Nov. 30.—(CP)—A survey of employment and unemployment conditions in Western Canada now is underway. It was announced yesterday, W. I. Moore of Toronto, representing the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, has been appointed regional statistics officer of the territory extending from the Lakehead to the Alberta-British Columbia border.

Europe's 1945 crops are expected to be 20 to 25 per cent below those of 1944.

Inside Picture Nazi World Told

Witness Says Nazis Plotted To Murder Weygand, Giraud

By FREDERICK C. OESCHNER

Witness to the famous Moscow NUTENBERG, Nov. 30.—

(BUP)—The No. 2 man of the German counter-intelligence service testified today that the Nazi war criminals plotted to murder Gen. Maxim Weygand and Henri Giraud, gave orders to kill all captured Russian commissars and Communists, and faked the incidents used as a pretext for the war on Poland by dressing up concentration camp prisoners in Polish uniforms.

THE INSIDE PICTURE of the Nazi world was told for the first time by Maj.-Gen. Erwin Lahousen, chief assistant to Admiral Wilhelm Canaris, head of the German counter-intelligence service.

Lahousen's testimony said the 28 war crime defendants told of the Nazis and a man who hated war and his men before Lahousen left Austria in 1938 to join the German high command he had received orders from Canaris not to permit any Nazis to obtain a high position.

Lahousen refreshed his memory from Canaris' diary which he said the admiral kept for the purpose of "informing Germany and the world how those people were guilty who were guiding the people."

HE SAID THAT Canaris had expressed serious concern over the bombardment of Warsaw and had warned Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel that serious repercussions in the world were likely. Keitel told him, Lahousen said, that the measure had already been agreed upon by Adolf Hitler and Hermann Goering.

Of the hundreds of agricultural species infesting our grasslands, 90 per cent of their damage is done by just five types.

War Veterans Are Welcomed At McDougall

Veterans were invited to join the church activities, not because the church was so strong as the members made it, and with strength, the church and its teachings was one medium through which peace could be maintained. This invitation was made by the Rev. Dr. A. C. McDougall, minister of McDougall United church, to more than 100 veterans and guests at a welcome home party held in the church Wednesday night.

THE MINISTER said, "I am not so interested in seeing you welcomed home with a turkey dinner, what I do prefer to see you welcomed home so to a home, a good job and a high standard of living, all of which you fought so gallantly for."

Dr. McDougall welcomed the returned personnel back to the church and expressed gratitude for the job they had done. This was replied to by Dr. W. C. Whitham, former major in the Canadian army, who gave thanks on behalf of himself and the other veterans for the welcome home and for the prayers they had received from church members while serving in the forces.

A BRIEF TALK was given by Mrs. W. F. Empey, president of the McDougall United church war service unit.

Entertainment was supplied by Egan Grapentine violin, accompanied by Mary Drummond, the Rev. Donald Fairfax, baritone, accompanied by Thomas Lavers, Miss I. Taylor, accordion and Miss Barbara Cowan, tap dancer. A sing-song was led by Alfred Harwood with Ralph Cooper as accompanist. A request was given by Miss Lois Neilson.

B.C. Active Volcano Just Big Mud Slide

VICTORIA, Nov. 30.—(CP)—British Columbia's "active volcano" in the region of Sheep Creek north of Cranbrook where a volcano was said to be erupting.

SEVENTEEN MILES from the mouth of the creek there was a huge slide of rock and gravel, originating three miles up in a dry gulch. This blocked Coyote Creek for 130 yards. The water from the creek mixing with the gravel formed a large mass of oozing mud which residents suspected was lava.

Mr. C. Hughes, mines inspector for the B.C. mines department, said in a report to the department that he found no evidence of volcanic action in the region of Sheep Creek north of Cranbrook where a volcano was said to be erupting.

Today in Europe

America to give way to the three Russian demands for Anglo-American recognition of the Russian fait accompli in the Balkans, admission of the Russian claim to a greater share in the Japanese settlement, and the cession to a Russian trusteeship of Tripoli.

It was decided that it was better to let the conference fall with all that that implies to the continuing uncertainty of Europe, it would appear that the best course for Britain and America to follow is to allow Russia to think matters over and await some overture or proposal from her. This, indeed, was the mood in which Mr. Byrnes and Mr. Bevin separated.

On the face of it, therefore, Mr. Harriman's recent flight to the Crimea, carrying a special letter from President Truman to Marshal Stalin, seemed like a complete change of diplomatic tactics on the part of the United States.

It seemed to many that the United States, having so recently rejected the intrigues of Mr. Molotov in London, had changed its mind and was running up to hand after the Soviet Union. This is not in fact the case.

IT APPEARS THAT Mr. Byrnes came to the London conference inadequately briefed on American policy in the Far East. He was in consequence, a more negative attitude toward Russia's Far Eastern claims than American leaders really required. When he got back to Washington and reported to the White House, it was thought that here, at least, was one matter in which the United States would really be required to make some concessions.

Russia is not in fact the case. The Washington Far Eastern Advisory Council, which this body is given executive functions, and it was solely in connection with this dispute that the Truman-Stalin correspondence arose.

Therefore, especially since the Kremlin is still disaffected with America's policy in the Far East despite President Truman's conciliatory attitude, the position of Britain and the United States is still substantially what it was on the day the London conference broke down.

Britain and America have made it plain that, though they regard agreement between the Big Three as the best foundation for making and securing the peace, there are principles and interests which they are not prepared to sacrifice merely for the sake of nominal unity among the Big Three.

If the next meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers is to achieve more than the last, it is essential that this position should be steadily maintained.

THE SECOND REQUIREMENT for the success of the next conference is that more preliminary enquiries should be put in hand through normal diplomatic channels, which, though often despised by the unthinking, are usually the best channels for reconciling international differences.

Discussions through diplomatic channels have the advantage of not tending, as do international conferences, to over-dramatize points of disagreement.

It is also important, between the next conference meets, that Russia should fully understand the consequences of Mr. Molotov's behavior in London. I cannot speak for American public opinion, but so far as British opinion is concerned there is no doubt that Mr. Molotov's behaviour has been a large percentage of the immense good will which existed in the minds and still more, in the hearts of the British people for the Soviet Union.

And this he did without securing the smallest advantage to his own country—unless, as some critics have suggested, Russia welcomes the idea that Europe should be as unsettled as possible during the cold and hungry winter which is now upon it.

I THINK IT IS TRUE to say that the diplomats of the Kremlin do not fully realize the consequences of their own actions. Although Soviet-inspired propaganda in such fellow-travelling papers as the London Times is always at pains to stress how suspicious Russia is bound to be of the western powers and the consequent need to appease her, there seems to be no appreciation in the Kremlin of the suspicion which their actions and, still more, their propaganda arouse in the western world.

Scrutinized through the Kremlin is in its objectives, in its tactics it is inclined to display an unparagonable levity. The Kremlin too often behaves like a man in a poker game who has bluffed on a busted flush and who, when his bluff is called, reacts with laughter and proceeds with meretricious, unabashed confidence and possibly success to the next hand.

What the Kremlin does not appreciate is that in the field of international relationships these bluffs have consequences, and that other countries do not find them nearly as funny as the Russians do. They are bound to take note of what has happened and adopt a more watchful and cautious attitude in the future.

THE CONVERSE of this is also true. If the state department and the foreign office are to succeed in bringing effective unity of policy among the Big Three, they must be persuaded by a more robust and somewhat public opinion than exists in the Anglo-American world.

Public opinion must be taught to distinguish between real and bogus Russian demands.

ABOVE ALL, AMERICAN and, still more, British public opinion must learn that the Big Three in the Kremlin are utterly cold-blooded and devoid of the emotion or reactions common to ordinary British and American men and women. They are not easily provoked, they seldom get angry, and they never lose their temper.

THERE IS THEREFORE no need to have undue anxieties about Russian intransigence. So long as Britain and America show the respect due to Russia as a state and a great power, so long as we are fair-minded, just and unswerving, the Kremlin will understand and respect us and true peace may yet be brought to a tortured world.

Changes Still Due

The House of Commons has approved the budget—which was brought down six weeks ago—"in principle." The members thereby declared that the Government has their approval in maintaining a financial statement covering proposed operations of the coming year. Two amendments which challenged the right of the Government to thus draft the year's program were rejected by heavy majorities.

In thus declaring confidence in the Government the members did not of course pledge themselves to pass the budget without changes in any particulars. The vote does carry, by inference, their approval of its general scope and structure, but there may be many, and very important, changes in detail as the program is gone through item by item.

In the interval since the budget was introduced one alteration has been made, under pressure of public opinion. The proposal to impose a duty on steel pipes and tubing has been dropped. But the already existing tariff on Diesel engines has not been removed. This should go by the board during the detailed discussion. The fishing industry on the coast, and industry in general, would benefit.

Nor has any change been made, or promised, to exempt people with small incomes from income tax. The Bulletin thereby insists on that. They are being made ridiculous by a system which collects taxes from people who do not get in a year as much as the Bureau of Statistics says they need to live on.

Federal "Disallowance"

There has been some confusion about the attitude of the federal government with regard to three acts of the Saskatchewan legislature which were disallowed. It has been widely reported that federal authorities approved these acts because they refused to disallow them.

In the past of course, the federal government did not express approval of the acts at all but merely of "a recommendation of the ministerial committee" which these acts were left to such opinion as they may have. This means that they may still be challenged in the courts. It does not mean that Ottawa has pronounced upon the merits of the legislation at all. Ottawa has merely declined to exercise the right of disallowance enjoyed by the Dominion under the British North America Act.

It has been recognized for considerable time that the Dominion should exercise this right only under the most extraordinary circumstances. Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan has expressed the hope that the arbitrary use of the power of disallowance will be confined to such as "public life of Canada is concerned." With that hope most Canadians will be in complete agreement.

If any provincial legislature passed an act which is beyond its constitutional competence, that act should be attacked in the courts. This is the only way in which the Dominion should be attacked. Simply because a province of the Dominion is considered objectionable to the federal government does not warrant summary interference with provincial rights. Such interference violates the spirit of the BNA.

It is conceivable that exceptional cases may justify disallowance. For instance, a provincial act may nullify a federal statute in the same field of government. But outside of these exceptional cases, disallowance is seldom legitimate, or good government or within the intent of the constitution.

Provincial legislatures are responsible to provincial electorates which possess sufficient powers of discipline to correct legislative abuses.

They Put the Proof on File

The German genius for system, organization and preparation must have got sidetracked somewhere in the closing days of the Nazi era. Apparently nobody at headquarters took the precaution of sending out that incriminating document on the official files should be destroyed before the Allied troops came along.

This over-night may come along in the big shots their lives. It is already giving them plenty of worry. For the Allies have fished out of the vaults documents from old wells and other places where clerks or janitors dumped them when they had to clear out to be going about. The prosecution lawyers are now reading these papers before the court at Nuremberg. To the amazement and discomfiture of the prisoners in the dock.

The genius for order was working all right when the instructions and reports were made out. The contents of the documents were put down in black and white, and filed away for future reference. The accused are thus being confronted by documentary evidence which carries their own story.

None of them seems to be safe from this deadly exposure, for they all had the urge to build up statistics. It is strange that it did not occur to any of them that these statistics might some day convict them of being the criminals they are. For without the documents it might be difficult to prove their guilt conclusively.

Why Go to the Woods?

There is room to surmise that it would be easier to get the needed additional 34,000 men into the lumber woods in Canada if a temporary embargo were placed on the export of lumber to the United States.

Cutting down trees is hard work, and living in a camp in the woods hardly a limited appeal. But if it were known that the lumber produced would go into houses which are so badly needed in Canada, the patriotic lumberman would play some part in inducing men to offer for this necessary service. There is no such inducement when it is known that the lumber, though needed in Canada, will be shipped out in enormous quantities.

In ordinary conditions the man cutting the trees would have to be attracted to the lumber wood by the wages. His sole concern would be to earn wages. These conditions do not prevail now. Unless driven by necessity, why should he be inclined to increase output of lumber, knowing that train-loads of it would go across the border, leaving the situation in Canada hampered and stalled as it now is?

If the only result of getting more men in the woods would be to send more train-loads of lumber across the border, the lumber is desperately needed here, while the lumber-Jack is likely to ask himself why he should head for the woods if he can get a job somewhere else.

The last of the Canadian war casualties will be back in Canada, it is stated, when the Lady Nelson docks in Halifax about the middle of December. This implies the cheering information that all the wounded and sick are expected to be well enough to travel by the time the hospital ship is due to sail from the other side.

John Amery, secretary of state for India—and whom some Edmontonites will recall as an early visitor to the city—will be dead in a London court of law for high treason. Decent is no guarantee of patriotism. And justice cannot be a respecter of persons.

Italy has seven political parties. It had only one before the war. One, that is, which dared to proclaim itself. And that particular one is not doing business now. But the seven are not all new. Some of them were in existence before the war and have been heard of. He didn't, and couldn't, exterminate them, but only chased them underground. They have emerged now to help remake the country he bullied into disaster.

Legion Claims Officer Named

Appointment of O. R. Brown, Edmonton, formerly of Cardston, to be adjutant and claims officer for the Canadian Legion in Alberta was announced Thursday by W. R. McLaren, honorary treasurer of the Legion's provincial council.

Mr. Brown enlisted as a private in the 1st Canadian Trench Battalion in September, 1918, and went overseas in December, 1918. He belonged to the signal platoon and rose through the ranks to become a sergeant in 1942. He was discharged holding that rank.

Complaints of veterans who feel that they have been subjected to injustices, and who turn to the Legion for assistance, will all pass through Mr. Brown's hands.

Early in 1943 he returned as a lieutenant to the unit and stayed with it through Sicily and Italy. With his appointment as unit intelligence officer, he became a captain and was recently discharged holding that rank.

Sympathy Strikers Going Back to Work
WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 20.—(CP)—Chrysler and General Motors Corporation units of Local 106 of the United Automobile Workers of America (CIO) voted to return to work immediately. It was made known early today.

The two units represent about 3,000 of the 8,000 members of the local which has been on strike in 27 Windsor plants in sympathy with Ford strikers. Local 105 went on strike Nov. 5, some two months after the strike of 10,000 workers for union security at the Ford Motor Company of Canada started.

In a statement issued on the signature of Alex Parent, Local 105 president, the union's policy committee said it believes the union has made a "major contribution toward making the Ford strike a national issue."

The statement said plant units will meet Saturday and Sunday to consider recommendations for a return to work.

McCoy Health Service

Many people are interested in the common symptoms which may accompany secondary anemia. The symptoms are some of those which may cause: Tiredness, faintness, forgetfulness, the heart beat, poor appetite, abdominal appetite markings for cravings for certain articles of food, and such symptoms as headache, dizziness, ringing noises in the ears, trembling and irritability.

The patient may say he finds it difficult to keep his mind on his subject, or that he is short of breath, or that the hands and feet are cold. The skin and nails may be pale.

I have given you these symptoms simply because so many of those who write to me ask about them. I do not intend that any reader should attempt to diagnose his own case deciding he has or has not anemia, according to whatever symptoms he has developed.

When you find it is a possibility that you have anemia, the best plan is to go and have a blood test made. In the event anemia is actually present, this will be quickly found when the blood is tested. The charge for this particular service is comparatively low and it is offered in every way that you have the laboratory test made so that you may be sure of the condition of the blood, instead of guessing about it.

The term anemia means a reduction or decrease in the red cells of the blood, commonly accompanied by a lowering of the hemoglobin which gives the red cell its characteristic color.

Some of the possible causes of secondary anemia are: Use of an improperly selected diet, a small but continued loss of blood, and the presence of parasites within the body. Contributing causes are: constipation, lack of sunlight and fresh air, insufficient sleep, and chronic stomach or intestinal upsets.

The term "nutritional anemia" has been coined to describe an anemia resulting when the diet has been so faulty that the blood state is abnormal. The diet which seems to be most likely to cause this kind of anemia is one poor in iron-bearing foods and at the same time, poor in regards to protein, iron, and vitamins.

Having the patient use foods rich in iron and also those which provide protein is an easily assimilated form will usually correct it. When these measures fail, it is customary for the physician to give iron-bearing preparations.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must be addressed to: Address: McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 111 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Opposition Balked Ottawa "Unable" To Divulge Works Plan for Transition

By DARC O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, Nov. 30.—(CP)—Members of the opposition sought in the Commons yesterday to obtain a general outline of the program of public works the government plans to institute to relieve unemployment during the transition period but were told by Works Minister Fournier he was unable to give them the desired information.

PERSISTENT REQUESTS for a statement from the minister were made by John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) and Clarence Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) yesterday in the Commons during the study of the civil estimates for the public works department.

Mr. Fournier said the estimates under review were prepared last December and January when the war was at its height. They contained no provision for post-war public projects. Furthermore, the projects to be carried out by his department were only a small part of the general reconstruction program to provide employment.

INTERFERING the argument were requests from various members for the carrying out of post-war projects in their constituencies. Three Maritime members—Gordon Innes (L—Halifax), King Hare (PC—Saint John—Albert), and Chester McKelvie (PC—Quebec)—called for improvements in the ports of Halifax, Saint John and Charlottetown.

At the night sitting the Commons resumed consideration of budget resolutions, hearing a discussion between Finance Minister Lloyd and Harry Jackson (PC—Toronto—Rouville) on the taxation of automobiles.

MR. FOURNIER said that besides the construction of government buildings his department had jurisdiction over certain dams, hydraulic works, the construction and repair of harbors, piers and works for improving the navigation of any water, and the vessels, dredges, scows, tools, implements and machinery for the improvement of navigation.

"If we take that as the power, then our plans are prepared for the next year to increase our activities to quite an extent," he said. "We will increase those activities where they will prove useful for the community in the improvement of business in the section and in order to relieve unemployment if it exists."

MR. DIFENBAKER said that the government's white paper on reconstruction, made public last year, stated that public works would be carried out in the transition period to provide employment during the switch from wartime to peacetime industry.

Unemployment was imminent and private industry could not expand to provide more jobs as long as government controls continued. He knew the government had plans for public works, but never could he obtain a concrete example of where the work would be done.

"WHAT THE PEOPLE OF ALBERTA want is not plans, but the assurance of jobs based upon those plans. I am not going to press the matter further. If the minister says he is unable to give them the desired information, I will not press the matter further."

Dr. R. C. Coleman, DSO, MC, who was among the military personnel returning to Canada on the big liner Empress of Scotland, Winnipeg bound, and now 30 years old, he is the second son of D. C. Coleman, chairman, and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He joined the RCAF at Winnipeg in January, 1940, going overseas with the famous unit in August, 1940. He was the Military Cross as a captain during the battalion's first landing on Sicily. He was second in command of the Patricia's when he was promoted to command the Loyal Edmonton Regiment of the first division, and was wounded with this regiment during the fierce fighting in Italy. After D-Day he saw further action on the western front as officer commanding the Lincoln and Welland Regiment, and last August was awarded the DSO.

Willard Pybus presented a brief favoring a professorship of peace. This would constitute a university course on the practical problems of maintaining peace, studying all aspects of war and of peace, emphasizing the lessons learned from history. Such a course would be compulsory in the university and would form the foundation of a spreading knowledge of how to maintain peace.

PROFESSOR VAN VLIET presented his views on the advisability of a gymnasium as a war memorial. He stated that physical education is really a government responsibility. He stated that the greatest good for the greatest number. He also stressed the necessity for a proper program and full facilities to give proper training to be of use in our daily life. A gymnasium would provide these facilities and all types of training.

War Assets Sell 4,859 Vehicles

By P. W. DEMPSON

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Nov. 30.—Surplus motor vehicles distributed across Canada up to October 31 by War Assets Corporation numbered 4,859. P. O. Peterson, vice-president of War Assets, said the Commons war expenditures committee Tuesday.

Distributed to dealers were 3,720 vehicles, while 785 were sold direct to farmers. There were 132 machines sold under federal priorities. 147 under provincial priorities and 34 under municipal and institutional priorities.

THE PRAIRIE PROVINCES received 1,044 of the vehicles, 206 being distributed in Manitoba, 206 in Saskatchewan, and 36 in Alberta. There were 804 sold direct to dealers, 145 to farmers and the remainder under federal, provincial and institutional priorities.

In reply to a question by A. M. Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre), Mr. Peterson said no sales of vehicles direct to farmers were scheduled for the prairie provinces during November, December or January. Reason for this was there were no surplus vehicles at this time.

War Memorial Is Discussed At University

Main item on the agenda of the student council meeting at the University of Alberta Wednesday evening was that of making a decision on what form a university war memorial should take. Briefs were first given to make clear to council members what forms had been suggested for a memorial and how previous ones had fared.

BILL RORKE presented a brief favoring scholarship memorials. This would be based on merit of work, but rather on academic ability and whether it warranted a university education, and would be awarded by priority, first to children of those who died overseas, next to children of those who suffered from the war, in such cases as wounded who would in some way be handicapped in their ability to earn, and last to children of any member of the armed services. When all others were helped, then any other children requiring assistance financially in attending university would be aided.

Willard Pybus presented a brief favoring a professorship of peace. This would constitute a university course on the practical problems of maintaining peace, studying all aspects of war and of peace, emphasizing the lessons learned from history. Such a course would be compulsory in the university and would form the foundation of a spreading knowledge of how to maintain peace.

He stated that the greatest good for the greatest number. He also stressed the necessity for a proper program and full facilities to give proper training to be of use in our daily life. A letter from the alumnae was read giving the views of that group with regard to a war memorial, that of loans to those who could not otherwise attend university. Such a large number of lives depended on other drugs as they did on insulin.

pointment of John Skene as assistant director of the university Year Book.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Marion Finn, president of the Waaneta Society for arranging and sending out twelve Christmas hampers from the university to working districts of Alberta that require assistance.

ALBERT ROBBINS was awarded permission to run a concession at the Varsity Rink.

INSTEAD OF HAVING the usual half dozen annual drives for funds for charities on the campus, the board of trustees of the university decided that this year there will be one drive only. Each student will be asked to give approximately $1.50. The total will be distributed among various causes approved by the council. The major part will go to the relief of students in Europe.

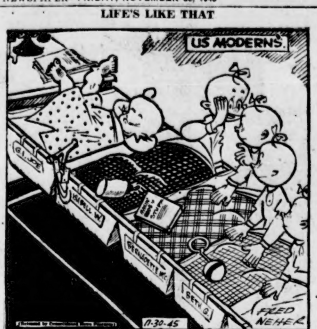

The budget for the largest dance of the year, the Junior Prom, was accepted. The affair will take place this Saturday in the RCAF drill hall.

COUNCIL APPROVED a motion that the United Church at the university be permitted to get a sponsor in Calgary to aid them in presentation of their concert in Calgary early in 1946.

It was also decided that a permanent secretary must be obtained to handle Student Union business. It is thought a disabled veteran could be hired. Suggestions will be accepted from DVA.

The students' council members meet every two weeks in the Senate Chamber at the university. President Ron Helmer presides. All campus activities, budgets, inter-collegiate competitions, etc., are subject to discussion by this group, and it is only with their approval that such measures can be undertaken. It is, in short, the self-governing student body at the university.

Ask Tax Deduction For Buying Insulin

OTTAWA, Nov. 30.—(CP)—Lt. Col. Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary) said yesterday following an operation to have purchases of insulin by diabetics suffered considered as usual medical expenses for income tax purposes, but Finance Minister Lloyd said such consideration could not be given one pharmaceutical product and not to a long list of others.

Col. Harkness said surely insulin could not be put in the same class as other drugs because the lives of many people depended on taking it regularly.

REVENUE MINISTER McCann, a doctor in private life, said Col. Harkness' request was not being declined because of administrative difficulties, but he could not understand why one drug was picked out rather than another. There were several drugs necessary to the lives of some people.

If drug purchases could be deducted for income tax purposes, this would almost mean an encouragement of the use of drugs.

Col. Harkness said he was not a medical man but he believed that such a large number of lives depended on other drugs as they did on insulin.

Stimpfle Named New President Farmers' Union

Carl Stimpfle, Edmonton, was elected president of the Alberta Farmers' Union at the Thursday afternoon sitting of the organization's annual convention at the Masonic Temple.

TWO OTHER candidates were close runners-up, H. N. Russell, Athabasca, and L. E. Pharis, St. Mary's.

Twelve candidates were in the field for three executive vacancies. They were nominated on the floor of the convention Wednesday afternoon and balloting had been completed at time of adjournment for the annual banquet but no report brought in. They are:

W. G. Logan, Holden; James Jackson, Irma; A. Milner, Lamont; A. D. Olson, Hinton; R. N. Russell, Athabasca; W. H. Childers, High River; Louis Hawkes, Hinton; J. Melnick, Warburg; Henry Young, Millet; Mrs. C. E. Jones, Millet; Mrs. L. H. Sherry, Hinton; and Ken Long, Spring Coulee.

It was announced Friday that James Jackson had been elected as vice-president; and A. D. Olson of Hinton, and W. G. Logan of Holden, had been elected as members of the executive.

AS A FOLLOWUP of the convention's forenoon approval of the preliminary outline of plans to amalgamate the union, the UFA and the Alberta Federation of Labor, the convention, on motion of W. H. Childers, High River, directed the nominating committee to assure that the amalgamation committee is instructed to safeguard the union's principles of no political party, no bona fide farmer membership, "direct action", and adherence to the union was agreed to in favor of affiliation with other organizations.

Against the last of these a further amendment was ruled out of order, that members of those affiliated organizations must be farmer property holders.

"We cannot let affiliated organizations to purge its membership," said the chairman, Henry Young, Millet.

ANSWERING A QUESTION, the chairman opined that affiliated organizations would be entitled to send delegates to the union's convention.

strike, in case it should be necessary to involve such a situation in a resolution, approved by the convention, and which set out that farmers have no assurance that farm prices will be maintained in the post-war period. Three steps toward making strike action effective were then outlined:

1. Calling of meetings to assess the probable support and to form committees.

2. Contacting other farm organizations, and

3. Contacting railway workers and parking house unions to get their support.

Supporting the resolution, Carl Stimpfle predicted that the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Canadian packing house unions could be counted on to support a legitimate strike.

COPY OF A RESOLUTION was sent to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Premier Ernest Manning in Ottawa, which urged that agreements commencing at 60 years' retrospective of other sources of income.

Amendment moved by Henry Kelly, Millet, to an income tax resolution recommended the total exemption of agriculturists from income tax, that was defeated, the move alone supporting it. A more serious amendment was effected by transmitting a paragraph from another resolution on the same subject, which was thereby "killed" into that before the meeting. The recommendation contained in it was that farmers' debts contracted before 1900 should be deductible from computations of income. The resolution asked 12-2. Dominion government to raise all income tax revenues to married people to $2400 and to single people to $1300 based on a five-child average.

ANOTHER RESOLUTION urged the executive to put pressure on sugar beet processing plants to build more factories, and on the government to encourage more beet growing.

Lovely Coxworth, Winnipeg, manager of the Canadian Cooperative Industries, Limited, answered criticisms against the organization heard at the present convention. He had only read these in the press, he said.

First, that the CCI is not a true cooperative. Mr. Coxworth read the letter patent to show that CCI's "charter" contains the principles of Rochdale cooperation.

TURNING to the allegation that farmers do not want the CCI, he recalled that a government investigation in the '30s had shown that the prices of farm machinery were too high. Only true solution was to get farmers to get together.

The CCI was therefore brought into being in 1940 and created 25,000 members, but could not so into being because of war conditions. Last September they decided to go ahead and now has 50,000 members and $200,000 capital. Alberta, with $128,000 share capital, is behind the others, the reason for which Mr. Coxworth thought, might be adverse propaganda of the kind he referred to.

He has found in Alberta, he said, that many farmers had not joined the CCI, because they have not been approached by canvassers. This creates an embarrassing position for CCI, because the canvassers are appointed by the provincial organizations and CCI has no authority to remove them.

HE HAD READ also the criticism that CCI, did serve its members in Western Canada the cost would be prohibitive and replied that farmers have bought a lot of paid for several times over all the farm-to-distributing warehouses, and local agencies of the machinery business. He had heard also, he said, the criticism that the CCI could not maintain parity prices, and in reply he did not know anyone who said that. "But it is the only way farmers can insist on a larger share of production."

"Prices," he concluded, "will only remain stable as long as farmers' production is maintained."

Actress' Wedding Hits Church Snag

LACUNA REVEREND CANADIAN—AP—Dr. A. Thompson Phillips, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, said yesterday that Bishop W. Brentford Stevens of the Los Angeles Episcopal diocese has forbidden the marriage in St. Mary's of actress Hattie Davis and William Grant Sherry, a local actor.

Dr. Phillips said the bishop's action was taken upon Episcopal Church canon law forbidding the marriage of a divorced person in an Episcopal Church by an Episcopal minister. The canon added that when he gave permission for the marriage in St. Mary's he did not know that Miss Davis had been divorced.

HE WAS DIVORCED in 1938 from her first husband, H. Nelson. Her second husband, who she married in 1940 died three years ago.

British Shipping Expert Goes Home

MONTREAL, Nov. 30.—(C.P.A.)—W. Brown, retiring general manager of United Shippers and national British shipowner who returned to London last night, and was proud to associate himself with Canadian shipbuilders and with a country which had produced "one of the most magnificent war-time records."

"WE HAVE BUILT UP an enormous fleet with at least 50,000 members, at least 25,000 ships, and the support of governments, ports and co-operatives. Because of this we are able to maintain a very satisfactory contact and you will be able to purchase your machinery at a greatly reduced price."

But we cannot set up an expensive organization in Alberta, nor can farmers take advantage of the service, before the quota of membership has been started up.

C. W. GRAY, of the National Film Board, described the use of the film in rural development, in the schools and in adult education by promoting rural unity, co-operation, and in illustrating new methods of farming and housekeeping.

Mr. Brown, who was in Edmonton, was welcomed to the platform as one of the founders of the UFA, and described the history of the UFA, of that organization—the beginning of agricultural organization in Alberta.

United States Entertainers Play to Vets

Thirteen talented young American women from concert, radio and screen presented a musical tour entitled the "Symphonettes" to more than 200 veterans of the Canadian Veterans Pavilion in the hospital auditorium Thursday evening.

The "SYMPHONETTES" was organized in Los Angeles by Miss Siedler, conductor and violinist, who is a graduate of the California University and former student of the Juilliard school of New York.

It is a string ensemble with a pianist and vocalist, and has a repertoire of wide range. Variety and interest are added to the program by featuring the different members as soloists or in trio and quartet combinations.

FOLLOWING the showing in the Pavilion auditorium, the girls toured the wards and Miss Mary Proulx, towards with the group, sang for bedridden patients, who were unable to attend the concert in the hall. Miss Proulx is under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. The girls were introduced by the master of ceremonies, Staff Sgt. Norman West, of the USAF in Edmonton.

Although the company was organized in Los Angeles the girls represent a great many of the states. Thursday night was their first performance in Canada and also the first time any of the girls have visited north of the border.

THE SHOW is presented here by the concert division of the USO Camp Shows and will be in Edmonton for the duration of the war. P. P. Proulx, special service officer at the air base here.

At 2 p.m. Friday afternoon a performance will be given at the air base station hospital. At 7:30 p.m. the same day will be given in the gymnasium at the base.

The girls are on a six-month tour and will leave on Saturday for Whitehorse. They will tour the Yukon and the Alaska Division.

Extend Pensions Act Regulations

OTTAWA, Nov. 30.—(CP)—The veterans committee of the Commons was told yesterday by Veterans Minister Mackenzie that the Pension Act would be amended to give Canadian veterans who served with Empire or Allied forces through an international conflict, that has been approved by the cabinet. It would provide that where such a veteran is receiving from a country other than Canada a pension which is below the Canadian rate it would be brought up to the Canadian rate. This is in line with policy in other veterans benefits.

Q.—CAN YOU GIVE ME an exercise to strengthen my two little toes? They rest partly upon the toes next to them.

A.—I presume to me that two little toes went to market and bought shoes of a slightly darker shade on the sides of your toes.

Q.—Will you tell me why the reason for your trouble?

A.—Yes, if you mean rolling it yourself on metal curls.

Q.—Will you please tell me how to make large legs smaller after having blackheads and also what to do for blackheads? I have used all kinds of cream.

A.—DO NOT USE CREAM at all on skin which is subject to blackheads. Wash the face several times a day with soap and water using a complexion brush for stimulation. Alternate hot and cold packs will help too. Use an antiseptic after washing your face.

Q.—How should a person with a round face wear her hair?

Roller Canary Competitions Now Underway

More than 100 birds are entered in the 10th annual roller canary show sponsored by the Edmonton Roller Canary Association in the 1000 hall. The show opened Thursday and will continue until Saturday.

Frank Bannister, International Judge for Canada, is judging the birds. Points are allotted each bird for the way it performs on various types of singing. Winners of the contest will be announced on Saturday.

According to T. Retallack, show manager, and secretary of the association, this year's show is the biggest yet. Entries have been received from Toronto, Saskatoon, Calgary, Lethbridge, Vancouver and Edmonton.

Winners of the Edmonton show will have the opportunity of competing for Canadian championships in the team classes two birds are used as a team and the total points of the two are added together.

The show will be open to the public from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday. The show will be presented with a trophy donated by Brooks and Co. and the best Edmonton entry will be awarded the Edmonton association trophy.

Civilian Gas Mask Sale at Vancouver

Drawing Profests VANCOUVER, Nov. 26.—(CP)—Crisis ARP committee yesterday announced the sale of wartime gas respirators in Vancouver stores and warned parents against permitting their children to use these devices for anything but "recreational purposes."

Fred Fish, civil ARP director, said the gas masks had not been released from the city supply but that he had information that one Vancouver store had obtained them in eastern Canada possibly from War Assets Corporation.

Dr. Stewart Murray, Vancouver's municipal health officer, said the respirators are dangerous for children because they give no protection against gases with which the children might want to experiment and they interfere with vision of children who might wear them on the streets.

One Child Dies In Naptha Blast

GARSON, Ont. Nov. 30.—(CP)—Caught in an explosion which ripped one wall out of his home, 10-year-old Jimmy Cuddy was killed Wednesday night. His brother, Michael, 12, is in hospital at nearby Sudbury and is recovering.

The explosion occurred while the boy's father, Michael Cuddy, was cleaning a charcoal-fired boiler. The explosion was so forceful, a wall between the living room and kitchen was blown out. Flames swept the house within a minute and completely destroyed the house.

The first was fought by some 20 neighbours armed with saws, axes and tools. They were unable to save the house. The family of eight, including the boy's mother, Mrs. Cuddy, and four children, were rescued. Jimmy Cuddy was killed. His brother, Michael, 12, is in hospital at nearby Sudbury and is recovering.

Jobless Insurance Claims Are Soaring

P. W. DAMPSON EDMONTON BULLETIN CHINA BUREAU

OTTAWA, Nov. 30.—With unemployment figures in Canada rising steadily due to discontinuance of service personnel and new unemployment of private claims for unemployment insurance are soaring.

Statistics Canada reported that unemployment claims for the week ending November 25 numbered 62,500. This is the highest figure since the week ending July 7, 1945. The increase of 10,000, or 17 per cent, over the preceding month. Claims at August 31 totalled 19,500.

Benefit paid out from the unemployment insurance fund for the week ending November 25 numbered 1,000,000. This is the highest figure since the week ending July 7, 1945. The increase of 100,000, or 10 per cent, over the preceding month. Benefits at August 31 totalled 10,000,000.

Threatened Tenant Pays $250 Damages

VANCOUVER, Nov. 26.—(CP)—A threatened tenant was ordered by Judge Bruce Boyd in County Court yesterday to pay $250 damages to her landlord, Mrs. Violet (Mrs. Horowitz), who sued for $250 damages to her building and furniture for alleged damage to the apartment she occupied for four years. Mrs. Horowitz and Mr. Magar, husband, threatened to evict her from the apartment.

Farm Expenses Take Too Much From Earnings

"Out of the 35 years which comprise the active life of the average farmer, too great a proportion of the life is devoted to the payment of land and the tools with which the farmer has to work," O. S. Longman, deputy minister of agriculture for Alberta, said in an address to more than 300 persons attending the Alberta Farmers' Union banquet in the Masonic Temple, Thursday night.

HE SAID THIS was one of several definite considerations he had reached in dealing with farmers as individuals and farmers as a mass.

Among the guests at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Phillips, William Venable, Tom Springs, Mr. and Mrs. John Leung, James Jackson, retiring president, and Mrs. Jackson; Carl Stimpfle, Eugene, president; William Hawley, Jr., vice; Henry Young, Miller, W. G. Logan, Holden, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Davis, Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Keria, Brimham.

LAND OWNERSHIP was a worthy ideal, Mr. Longman said, but a theory which in practice also frequently resulted in the prospective owner becoming a victim rather than a benefactor. If ownership was to be active for through borrowed lands, government or commercial, the possibility of attaining and enjoying ownership successfully was a very small one. Family standard of living was limited. To this the "inflation" period was an exception, he added.

"In Canada we have yet to design a leasehold that is an adequate substitute for the free ownership of land," he declared. Mr. Longman.

HE SAID AGRICULTURE must not be forced even by circumstance to accept an unduly low standard of life. If that is done, he went on, the main aims in cash and credit deterioration. A healthy and robust agriculture is essential to replace the waste from urban life.

Farmers should realize that technological advance may provide only a temporary advantage, cautioned Mr. Longman.

"Farmers as a whole advance with the nation rather than periodically or temporarily advance that may accrue to agriculture through technological factors," he said.

"THEREFORE the land policy of the nation has a mighty influence upon the social stability of its rural people and its entire population."

He said the desirability of a land tenure policy was the responsibility of provincial and municipal authorities. "It is a great privilege and responsibility," he added.

The speaker referred to residents of special areas where land was being reclaimed for use by a taxpayer in a municipality who through arrears of taxes had lost the equity of his estate. For these the essentials of a satisfactory leasehold were as follows:

SECURITY OF TENURE throughout the active life of a farmer, possibly a maximum of 50 years.

The right of choice of ownership or leasehold, with responsibility resting upon the leaseholder.

It should be self-liquidating when purchase is agreed upon and a minimum of credit required.

Existing authorities must be given priority of claim against earnings of the farm.

TO PROVIDE a farm tenure system with the foregoing qualifications the deputy minister said he was of the opinion that the following plan would be required:

That a uniform basis of land tenure be adopted by provincial and municipal authority, that a cash rental basis be adopted and that

Lions Club Donates Wheel Chairs to Veterans

Disabled Men Wheel Chairs Given to Vets By City Lions

Stating it was a great pleasure for the Lions club to be able to present something that will give aid and comfort to those disabled veterans, who have themselves given so much for their country, the Young Lions club president, on Thursday officially turned over ten wheel chairs to the staff of the Col. McBurnie Pavilion on behalf of members of the organization.

The presentation was made in the pavilion auditorium Thursday night.

Dr. D. H. Easton accepted the chairs on behalf of the hospital staff and patients. He expressed the appreciation of the whole hospital for the work that has been done in ease and the gifts that have been donated by Lions in the past.

Eight months ago the club presented the institution with stage curtains and draperies for the auditorium windows.

The rental is a multiple of the tax and not the crop share, payable to the reserve fund maintained by the municipality or the province.

That the annual amount collectable by either authority from a rental be limited to the current tax levied; any accumulation in the reserve fund should bear interest and be held to the credit of the leasee.

MR. LONGMAN also recommended that the lease contract give the leasee the privilege of purchase at a predetermined price provided the purchase price could be paid in full from the fund accumulated in the trust account which would be built from the farm earnings. In this way the leasee could acquire land or cash value at his own discretion. Withdrawals from the trust account would be permissible for payment of taxes, debts due to the crown, erection of buildings, land improvements. Any balance should be payable to the leasee at termination of the contract, with the lease contract to extend for any period up to 50 years with provision for a review of its terms or their modification every seven years and all improvements to be the property of the tenant.

He enumerated many advantages

Empire Suffered Million Casualties

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(Reuters).—The armed forces of the British Commonwealth and Empire suffered 1,346,025 casualties during the war, Prime Minister Attlee reported yesterday to the House of Commons.

Of these, 552,682 were listed as killed, including those who died of wounds or injuries, and 59,841 as missing.

Figures for other parts of the Empire were as follows:

Wounded—United Kingdom, 277,000; Australia, 39,940; New Zealand, 14,208.

There are four known species of cedar trees.

Meet Debates Plan to Raise Fund For Home

Wages and means whereby a campaign to raise $50,000 with which to construct a home for blind persons in Edmonton were discussed at a meeting in the Metropolitan Hotel Thursday night of the North of Alberta Board of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

THE BUSINESS MEETING was presided over by Dr. H. A. Parker, president of the board, and Mr. C. H. Robinson, secretary.

It was pointed out that at the present time Alberta has no such facility as a home for the blind and that Premier Ernest Manning had been interviewed by representatives of the institute with regard to that situation. The provincial government grant was a result of that interview. Grant for a similar amount was made for a home in Calgary; the northern and southern boards each being the necessity of raising $50,000.

THE RESIDENCE proposed was a single blind person without living accommodation. It would contain individual rooms with radiators and a common lounge, and would care for 30 persons.

Other matters discussed included a building to provide administrative services for 150 blind people of Edmonton and district, and a club room for 100 blind people of Edmonton.
